Evany Clinic gets training funds from FNBT

The Evany Clinic receives a $500 donation from First National Bank to assist additional training for their nurses and to purchase education material for clients.

The Evany Clinic Pregnancy and Wellness, which formerly operated as Mustang Pregnancy Center, offers pregnancy testing, post-abortion counseling, ultrasound, abstinence and STD info, classes and support for pregnant women, family classes, and referrals for other help organizations, social services and medical needs.

“Reinvestment in the communities we serve is an important duty for all of our locations,” Bank Manager Lanier Lee said. “The Evany Clinic is a non-profit organization that serves a need and provides resources many women would not otherwise have access to. We as a bank are fortunate to be in a position to provide assistance that aids them to continue to operate.”

Evany Clinic’s Executive Director Licia Walters collects the funds from FNBT Multibanker Erin Manual, Teller Kylie Swidler, Assistant Manager Ashley Raney and Manager Lanier Lee in the bank lobby on May 8.
