Food Bank receives donation from FNBT to feed children

Answering the nutritional needs for children, Karen Paul with Regional Food Bank met with First National Bank & Trust Co. Manager Patty Chan and Loan Officer Melissa Bomgaars to discuss the Food for Kids Backpack program at the beginning of August.

First National Bank gladly agreed to assist the program and donated $5,000 to the Regional Food Bank.

The donation goes to support the program which is distributed through Oklahoma schools and provides chronically hungry children with backpacks filled with non-perishable, nutritious, kid-friendly, shelf-stable food to sustain them over the weekend and school holidays.

In the 2015-2016 school year, over 800 kids benefitted from the program in Grady County alone. RFB concentrates the bank's donation in Grady County, as Grady County makes up the majority of the bank's service area, but the program benefits 53 counties across Oklahoma, including Caddo, McClain, Oklahoma, and Canadian counties.

“Karen expressed to me how thankful she was for our continued support and assistance in helping them make other contacts within the community,” FNBT Bank Manager Patty Chan said. “We are pleased to be able to assist the Regional Food Bank with their mission to fight hunger for Oklahomans of all ages.” (From left to right) FNBT Manager Patty Chan, RFB Representative Karen Paul and Loan Officer Melissa Bomgaars engage in conversation about the Kids Backpack program.
