FNBT shows support at livestock show

For more than 25 years, First National Bank has lent a helping hand in the Grady County Livestock Show in Chickasha by assisting with the premium sale.

Every three years, a crew of FNBT bankers helps calculate the totals, file add-on slips and keep track of how many animals are sold.

Given the opportunity to support the Grady County Livestock Show by calculating tickets on March 2 were FNBT Managers Beverly White, Holly Otey, Hydie Wilkins, Paige Dunn along with Vice President Shannon Christian, Senior Deposit Banker Connie Lasseter, Executive Assistant Rebecca Jones, Loan Assistant DeDee Resendez and Assistant Vice President Kenneth Nash and Security Officer Candace Jones.

“I remember as a kid being involved in 4H and FFA; it always meant a lot to me to have the support of people in the community. Now it is my turn to support them,” Wilkins said. “I enjoy watching the kids put so much pride and effort into their animals. Showing an animal is much more than the show itself. It teaches the youth responsibility for a living thing that is depending on them. The livestock show also brings family, friends and communities together to support each other.”

“I enjoy spending time at the Livestock show; we get the opportunity to visit with our customers and show support for each school’s 4H and FFA program,” Candace Jones said.

FNBT plans on participating in future livestock shows at the Grady County Fairgrounds.

Taking a break from calculating the totals of the livestock premium sale are First National Bank Assistant Manager Paige Dunn, Senior Deposit Banker Connie Lesseter, Manager Holly Otey, Assistant Vice President Kenneth Nash, Loan Assistant DeDee Resendez, Vice President Shannon Christain and Assistant Manager Hydie Wilkins on March 2.
