Bankers join parade excitement in Minco

First National Bank bankers participated in the Minco Homecoming parade for the 16th year in a row; throwing out goodies such as candies, footballs and Frisbees to the crowd.

With the marching band playing, floats and groups of people travel down the main streets of Minco to show their school spirit in preparing for the homecoming game in mid September.

“I love the hometown spirit that is displayed,” Manager Robyn Vickery said. “Minco loves its Bulldogs; the entire town comes out to show its support.”

For many in the community, homecoming is an entire family activity.

Teller Haley Williams was involved in the parade while attending high school, and now gets the enjoyment of watching her younger siblings become part of the parade, while she rode in the FNBT float.

“Next year my siblings will be part of the crowning ceremony before the game, since they are in football and cheer,” Williams said. “Everyone just gets so excited.”

FNBT plans on being involved in homecoming parades for the years to come, continuing its pride, support and community involvement.

Minco Bulldogs dominate at the homecoming game against the Rush Spring Redskins on Sept. 15. Before the game FNBT Assistant Manager Tonya Holding and Manager Robyn Vickrey marched in the annual homecoming parade while President and CEO John Gorton along with Assistant Vice President Matt Kennell, Teller Ashlie Johnson, Teller Haley Williams and Marketing Assistant Tayler Isaacs tossed out candy, footballs and Frisbees to the crowd while riding on the float.
